CHRISTIAN FICTION AUTHOR, JACQUELINE MOORE UNVEILS AN INSPIRING AND INSIGHTFUL LOOK INTO CLASS, LOVE AND THE WILL OF GOD IN NEW BOOK, *SERVING JUSTICE

(Pocono Summit, Pennsylvania, January 1, 2009) JACQUELINE MOORE'S EXALTING AND SPIRIT-FILLED STORY descriptively peruses the turmoil between societal acceptance, the ability to forgive, and the ultimate pursuit of love. Through her ordained and compelling composition, she fervently delves into the possibility of love prevailing against all odds, with the help and guidance of God.

Using a dynamic twist of legal issues vs. moral issues, skillfully intertwined with spiritual nourishment, Ms. Moore scrupulously satisfies even the conscientiously faithful partisan in the methodology that the Word of God is an intrinsic tool necessary for fulfillment of an abundant life. Her sacred revelation of divine influence glorifies God, and intrigues the soul, providing hope, insight and inspiration that if given the chance, love can conquer all.

This book takes a straightforward approach to show how people often times make choices that lead to life altering consequences. It is a book to help us identify some of our shortcomings and move beyond them.

"I have been writing for more than ten years. Christian Fiction and Romance are my first loves. Over the years, I have completed and published other Christian-related articles, stories, and novellas. I have been a member of many online literary organizations as well as worked as a freelance writer, and accomplished Humanitarian," says Moore.

Join Jacqueline Moore as she takes us on a journey of love, friendship, deception and redemption.

Peace In The Storm Publishing proudly presents debut novelist, Jacqueline Moore, and the eye-opening novel, Serving Justice, April 2009.

SERVING JUSTICE

What happens when a prominent and successful Chicago Judge falls in love with her driver?

Angela Jenkins decided as a child that she would become a lawyer. Fighting injustices perpetrated against those who could not or would not fight for themselves ran like passion through her veins. Growing up, Angela was taught that putting God first in her life, respecting the rights and choices of others, and working hard, were the most important things a person should strive for.

While in pursuit of her law degree, Angela meets Rhonda, Theresa, and Darlene who are there reaching for the same goals. Over the next two decades, an unbreakable bond forms and friends become sisters.

Angela finds the more successful she becomes, the more she begins to lose her connection with God and starts conforming more to the world, than to the word of God.

When love enters her heart, she must decide if having a relationship is more important than what others, including her friends, have to say. Angela is forced to look at what's important in her life and has to choose between allowing others to shape who she is or conforming to what God wants her to be.

“Inspiring! Enlightening! Serving Justice serves up more than just an infectious love affair and an indestructible bond among girlfriends it epitomizes strength, tenacity and a healthy dose of sheer determination. I was hooked from page one!”

~Cherilyn Azubuiké, Author Weekly Wisdom

“Moore is a prolific author who writes with a passion generated from a genuine love of people. The emotions of her characters are so real you find yourself saddened by their dispositions and triumphant during their moments of completion. I look forward to reading more work from Moore in the near future.”

EXCERPT FROM

SERVING JUSTICE

hat happened to putting our trust in God and the sanctity of marriage? Respect of self and respect of others. The Bible didn't say do others before they do you. It says; do unto others, as you would have them do unto you.

So Mr. Anthony Alexander, I am going to put myself out there for you. Trust in what you feel in your heart. Not what you see and hear. Trust that whatever you feel in your heart is right. Not what the world has taught you. Trust that voice inside of you. The voice of God, that speaks to your heart and mind that if you believe like I do, that God is the one that has brought you into my life for a reason and that I am the one that he has placed in your life as your soul mate, your helpmate, and that you will stand and face the world with me, and if you don't believe anything that I have said. If you don't feel the same way that I do, then yes, you can still be my driver and not my mate.”

It was now Tony's turn to be struck silent. He now understood what made this woman not only a great lawyer, but a great judge. Angela had spoken with such conviction and passion that he had truly been moved to tears. But most of all, she had seen inside both his head and his heart and had put into words, feelings he never would have been able to express.

Tony just stood there for a moment, stunned by what Angie had just told him. He was unsure of himself at that moment and didn't know if he should tell her just how right she was about him.

“Your honor, I mean Angie, do you have any idea what you are getting yourself into? I mean think about it. You are a distinguished Chicago City Judge. Do you have any idea what dating someone like me would do to your reputation?”
